

April 11, 2011

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing this as a letter of personal reference for Gene Copley. I have known Gene for about fourteen years. As a friend I don't think I have ever had one that could be depended on more than Gene. Far from being a fair weather friend Gene is there for you whenever and however needed. There are many times I have sought Gene's wisdom in both my personal and professional life. Perhaps a time that stands out the most is several years ago when my wife was going through a health crisis, Gene and his wife opened up their home to my family and I for over two months to lend extra help and support while she recovered.

For the eight years I served as senior pastor of Word of Life Christian Fellowship, Gene also served as an elder. Being a skilled and experienced businessman Gene brought tremendous wisdom to the administrative accepts of the ministry. As a man of compassion and integrity he also brought a caring heart to minister to people from all walks of life.

Gene is both a self starter and team player. Gene always worked to a high standard of excellence both individually as a Chaplin to prisoners in jail and as a mentor to teens and young adults, as well as part of a team doing outreaches into the community and serving the congregation.

To sum it up, Gene is a man I would trust with anything I own as well as my own children and grandchildren. He is a man I would use as confidant for any issue in life. He is one I would seek out for wisdom on financial, business, relational and moral issues.

Therefore I would give Gene my highest possible recommendation knowing that he will be a tremendous asset to any company or organization to which he commits himself to.

Sincerely,

Jay Wolfman